If a tablespoonful of kerosene is put into four quarts of tepid water and this is used in washing windows and mirrors, instead of pure water, there will remain on the cleansed surface a polish no amount of friction can give.

The discovery of the fact that the Belmont-Morgan syndicate is purchasing gold direct from the smelters at higher rates than are paid for it at the mints, thus cornering the gold market, has created a sensation in the East. The condition will be used as an argument in Congress against the single gold standard.

The outlook for silver grows brighter as the days roll by, and if the sentiment in favor of the free coinage of the white metal continues to increase for the next twelve months as rapidly as it has during the past three, political parties of all persuasions will be tumbling over each other in wild confusion in their eagerness to be first in declaring for the restoration of silver. Let the good work go on.

Cleveland's Generosity.

A few weeks ago the wife of Albert Zerkas, a poor farmer residing three miles north of here, gave birth to three children, all girls. Acting on the suggestion of a friend they were named Francis, Ruth and Ester, and the father wrote Grover Cleveland, telling him of the event and asked him to buy them each new dresses. The father has received a check for $500 signed by Grover Cleveland.

A TERRIBLE MURDER.

AN OLD LADY BRAINED BY A TRAMP IN CARSON
VALLEY.The Body Dragged to a Bed and Set on Fire.

On Wednesday afternoon between 1 and 4 o'clock Mrs. Sarman an old lady living near Cradlebaugh's bridge about 14 miles from Carson in Carson Valley was brutally murdered by a tramp.

Her husband went out in the field about 1 o'clock to irrigate and spent the afternoon about half a mile from the house, leaving her knitting by a window. When he returned at 4 o'clock he found smoke issuing from the bed room and rushing in found the bed in flames. He called for his wife and hearing no response, proceeded to extinguish the flames with buckets of water and then went about the premises to find his wife. He finally discovered blood on the floor where he had left her setting, and traced it to the bed room.

A HORRIBLE SIGHT.

Lifting up the charred bed he found the dead body of his wife, with her head crushed in with blows of a hatchet and the lower part of the body scorched and blistered by the heat. He at once drove to a neighbors house and gave the alarm, and soon the report of the murder spread over the valley.

A horseman was sent to Genoa to notify the authorities, and the Sheriff started in pursuit of a tramp who about 4 o'clock was noticed hurrying along the road to Gardnerville, and continually looking back as if in fear of pursuit. The man was in jail here not long ago and had a very bad character.

There were two cuts on the woman's head, one on the back of the head and one on the forehead. It is supposed that the woman was sitting by the window with her back to the open door, when the tramp came in behind, using a hatchet he had found in the wood shed. She was between 50 and 60 years of age, hard of hearing and probably had no warning of his approach. The first blow must have stunned if not killed her, but he struck again to make sure of his work. There was quite a pool of blood on the floor near the window and blood all along the floor where he had dragged her to the bed room. The hatchet was left lying on the floor where he had used it.

The body was dragged to the bed room and the feather bed thrown back. The body was placed between the feather bed and the slats. There was some money in the house, but it was not taken, the murderer probably overlooking it.

EXCITEMENT IN THE VALLEY.

There was great excitement in the valley as the news of the tragedy spread among the ranchers and many remarked having seen the tramp hurrying along the road. Sheriff McCormick started after the man from Genoa and several ranchers mounted horses and got on the trail. When they started however the fugitive had at least five hours start and heading for the mountains beyond Gardnerville.

The stage driver who came in from Wellington last evening says he met the man and gave him some tobacco. He appeared a little foolish.

THE SUSPECTED MAN.

On Tuesday a man exactly answering the description of the tramp who got his breakfast at the house of the murdered woman, was arrested here for vagrancy. He begged enough money to get a pair of russet shoes and the man who was hanging about the vicinity of Mrs. Sarman's answered his description. Coroner Selby held an inquest yesterday and the jury found a verdict of death from the hands of an unknown person.

The ranch where the murder occurred was formerly owned by G. W. G. Ferris, who died recently at Riverside Cal. It is now the property of H. F. Dangberg.

Mrs. Sarman was 62 or 63 years of age and had resided on the ranch where she was murdered for the past ten or twelve years. Her friends say that she frequently expressed a fear that she would be murdered by tramps. Deceased leaves besides her husband two married daughters, Mrs. Peter Heltman and Mrs. Henry Frevert, and one son 17 years old, all of whom reside in Carson Valley.

The funeral will take place from the house this morning at 10:30, and the remains will be interred in Genoa cemetery.
